

As individuals we have no direct power to act. – But shared visions do create motivation for needed change activities.

Humankind needs global and regional problem-solutions. Two such problems are dominating – not only in my view:

1. Climate change and carbon-burning.
  - World-heating seems unavoidable, but continued carbon-burning creates even more climate migration.
2. Growing hate and sad loss of empathy can be overcome by wake-up experience
  - but most long-term healing can work for change through individualized learning.

Our natural DIVERSITY in all of nature, including us humans, cannot be denied. It is simply a reality. Why not make this fact as well become our guide in education?

Schools on various levels at least in Germany and in most global didactical systems are tied down by tradition and avoidable bureaucracy. Learning humanity remains deprived, as long as such procedures are not banned through conscious political decisions.

In Germany this means, breaking down rubber walls of State rules and traditional procedures. FREE LEARNING could be the call to action. FREE mainly means without unwanted subjects. One important meaning of FREE is realized, when schools offer individualized learning for those learners who will be motivated to lead their own lives in successful human dignity.

This will need the assistance of volunteers with basic language skills in the appropriate learning framework. Migrating specialists should become encouraged by simple transparent procedures. They will get better standings also by accepting our cultural values. Learners will benefit directly. This basically simple idea, to improve learning through involving existing migrating specialists in our democratic cultural learning process will have to be made acceptable in an open-minded new Europe. – My basic belief: All IS POSSIBLE !

Peter Hesse – Jan. 2024, mail: p.hesse@solidarity.org

